Subject: HB 4782, electric bicycle definition

Hello,

I respectfully request that the language for the definition of an electric bicycle be slightly changed. Specifically, the language defining the maximum wattage. Rather than less than 750 watts, I request that the language state "not greater than 750 watts." The effect is that it then includes that last crucial watt which is a common output among current electric bike producers. Thanks very much for your considerations. Respectfully,
